Pattern

It is expected that the paper might have two parts, where Part A will focus on General Aptitude, Reasoning, General Awareness and English. Whereas Part B might focus on domain knowledge. However, there is no surety yet that Part B will be included or not. As this examination consists of negative marking, candidates will have to be careful while attempting the CUCET exam. Questions that are not attempted by the candidates would not be reviewed and accessed by the CUCET authorities. Unanswered questions would not have any impact on the final merit score.

Admissions to the Central universities all over India are based on the CUCET score. Therefore, a candidate has to put in a lot of effort in cracking the examination with a merit score. CUCET coaching, sample papers, mock tests, and previous years' examinations can help the candidate score a spot on the merit list.
